THE SITUATION.

The instinct of national unity, often blind and unreasoning, but rising at times to a passion, is merhaps the strongest political charasteristic of the American people. It helped the moral sense in its contest with slavery and gave it final victory. The Republican party only triumphed when it became clear to the majority that its principles were necessary to give us national coherence and peace. So in the war it was this instinct of nationality that, mounting to a passion wept over the country and extinguished a rebellion so powerful and wide extended that no main brute force could ever have conquered it. Mistakes were nothing, losees were inconsequental; valor and numbers and perseverence on the other side all came to nought, against this na tional passion for oneness.

In these cases, the Republican party had this feeling as an ally in its course by it, it became great, and was invested with power, and was able to impress its with power, and was able to impress its the number of delegates present as fol-policy upon the nation. But now it is parting company with it; it is proving nessee, 41; Virginia, 61; West Virginia, parting company with it: it is proving deaf to the demand for national reconstruction and reconciliation -for hastening to completion of national unity-and so it is threatened with the loss of its power in the Government.

This is the simple explanation of the political situation of the division of the administration, the seperation of the Excentive from Congress, and the effortsmaking to form a National Union party in opposition to the Republicans. Granted that the demand for national unity in the speedy restoration of the Southern states to the status in Congress is unwise and unintelligent, and its success frought with danger, the fact remains no loss the same. It is the inspiration of present political changes—the source of have espoused it along with Mr. Johnson and Mr. Seward, and the occasion of just alarm to the Republicans.

place to-day.

The Republicans voted for Hon. Paul
Dillingham, of Waterbury, for Governor, and the Democrats for Charles N.
Davenport, Esq., of Whitingham.

We have secured this evening returns from about thirty towns, embracing about one-tenth of the vote of the State. The ballot stands thus far as follows:— Dillingham, 5,149; Davenport, 1,895. The same towns last year gave Dillingham 4,658 and Davenport 1,859. This indicates a gain to the Republican majority in the State over that of last year of about 5,000.

Of the towns heard from on the vote for Governor, all but two report Republican members of the Legislature as elected. The State will be Republican. In the 3d Congressional District, where a hard fight has been going on between the rival Republican candidates for Con-gress, there is no choice as far as heard rom. The two candidates, Hon. Portus Baxter and Hon. Romes H. Hoyt, are about even. In the other two Districts the Repub
